

FCC representative:

The new phone regulations being proposed by the FCC would lessed the state law of Indiana on phone calls received by telemarketers. I have been relieved of the many telemarketing calls I used to receive by them, drastically eliminating the annoiance and invasion of my personal privacy at my home. I strongly urge that the FCC does not over rule the law enacted by the state of Indiana. Any telemarketing calls I will receive if this law is over ruled will be delt with harshly and I will refuse to do any business with the people who invade my privacy.

Respectfully,

David E. Stephan, citizen of the United States and the state of Indiana
